Contributors

Richard T. Ainsworth is director of international government affairs at ADP Inc. in Salem, New Hampshire. He is an adjunct professor at Boston University School of Law, where he specializes in VAT, and is the former deputy director of the international tax program at Harvard Law School.

Reuven S. Avi-Yonah is the Irwin I. Cohn Professor of Law at the University of Michigan.

Brandon Boyle is an attorney with more than 10 years experience advising U.S. multinationals doing business in Japan.

Sijbren Cnossen is an adviser at CPB Netherlands Bureau of Economic Policy Analysis and a professor of economics at the University of Pretoria.

Harley Duncan is a managing director in the State and Local Tax Group of KPMG LLP’s Washington National Tax practice.

William G. Gale is the Arjay and Frances Fearing Miller Chair in Federal Economic Policy at the Brookings Institution and co-director of the Urban-Brookings Tax Policy Center.

Pierre-Pascal Gendron is a professor of economics at the Business School of Humber College Institute of Technology & Advanced Learning in Toronto, Canada.

Michael J. Graetz is the Isidor and Seville Sulzbacher Professor of Law and the Columbia Alumni Professor of Tax Law at Columbia Law School.
Jane G. Gravelle is a senior specialist in economic policy in the Government and Finance Division of the U.S. Congressional Research Service.

Benjamin H. Harris is a senior research associate with the Economics Studies Program at the Brookings Institution.

Douglas Holtz-Eakin is president of the American Action Forum in Washington.

Mark Houtzager started his own U.S.-based VAT consulting firm in the summer of 2010. Based in New York City, he supports U.S. companies with their non-U.S. transaction taxes, such as VAT and customs duties.

Kathryn James is with the faculty of law at Monash University in Melbourne.

Ine Lejeune is a partner and leader of global indirect taxes with PricewaterhouseCoopers in Belgium.

Peter R. Merrill is a principal in the Washington National Tax Services office of PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP.

Bert Mesdom is a senior manager with PricewaterhouseCoopers in Belgium.

Debra Morris is reader in charity law and policy at the University of Liverpool.

Susan C. Morse is an associate professor at the University of California Hastings College of the Law.

Paul Preivetera is an attorney and co-director of the International Tax Education Program at Temple University’s Japan campus.

Philip Robinson is the head of global indirect tax services at Ernst & Young.

Jeffrey Saviano is the Americas director of indirect, state and local taxes at Ernst & Young LLP.

Alan Schenk is a professor of law at Wayne State University Law School in Detroit.
Jon Sedon is a manager in the State and Local Tax Group of KPMG LLP’s Washington National Tax practice.

Joel Slemrod is the Paul W. McCracken Professor of Business Economics and Public Policy, professor of economics, and director of the Office of Tax Policy Research at the University of Michigan’s Ross School of Business in Ann Arbor.

C. Clinton Stretch is the managing principal for tax policy at Deloitte Tax LLP.

Martin A. Sullivan is a contributing editor to Tax Analysts.

Alan D. Viard is a resident scholar at the American Enterprise Institute.

Xu Yan is a postdoctoral fellow on the Faculty of Law of the University of Hong Kong.